The court further charges that if the work rendered necessary is such increased demand for water was of such character as to require skill and science in the selection and construction, then said compan would be in the line of its duty in consulting an being guided by skilled and scientific engineers who were familiar with and expert in such matter.

The case was then given to the jury. SCHLOSS'S VERSION

The waterworks case approaches a finis. The testimony has all been completed and the speeches have all been made. Yesterday was a field-day for the lawyers, and was given up to speech-making. The addresses for the prosecution were made by Judge T. W. Brown and Attorney-General Turner; those for the defense by Colonel Gantt and General Luke Wright. The prosecution had put in a good array of testimony, and the defense had summoned to its aid the very best evidence obtainable. The object of the Water company throughout has been to show that the delays occasioned could not have been in any way avoided, that reasonable care was taken to prevent delays, and that when unforeseen accidents happened ditors of the Memphis Appeal when unforeseen accidents happened the greatest possible expedition was used to right matters and to furnish the city with the water it needed.

The did not know what he wanted, and did as he desired. Hancock then said:

"You have insulted me." I told him that I he first speech was made by JUDGE T. W. BROWN, and in it he followed a clear and consister idea. He spoke of the grinding nature of monopolies; he detailed very strongly the soulless nature of corporations; he pictured the Water company as being fully up to the customary cold-bloodedness of corporations; he showed how they dallied with the people, how they had put them off with fair promises which were never meant to be kept. He also endeavored to prove that the delays were not justifiable. His arraignment of the Water company was scorching, and his speech was a very strong and able one. Judge Brown was followed by GENERAL LUKE E. WRIGHT, who made a very happy argument in favor of the Water company. He began by ridiculing Judge Brown's arraignment of corporations. He read from the old charter of the Water company showing that Judge Brown was one of the first incorporators of the company himself. General Wright grew very humorous at this juncture, and referred to Judge Brown as the duddy of the Waterworks company. He said that the Judge had almost made it out a crime for a man to be connected with this corporation himself. The speaker himself had, unfortunately, never succeeded in amassing any wealth, but he had a great respect for men who, by their labors, did. It was surely no disgrace for the directors to be wealthy men. Everything 200 bags Dairy and Small Pocket Salt. that could be done to bring the Water company into disrepute had been done. It was General Wright reviewed the testimony at some length, and claimed that the delays oc-casioned were unavoidable. He quoted from a number of legal authorities to show that the delays and breakages in the ma-chinery were such as could not be guarded against. He went on to show how speedily the company had afforded temporary relief. He took the position that, according to the authorities he had quoted, the company was not civilly liable, and that consequently it could not be criminally liable. One of the cases he quoted was where a railroad com-pany had transported a lot of nitro-glycerine without being informed what it was; an exthen went on to show that the company could not help it, if Wolf river was high, or if bonds or could not supply machines as soon as they followed General Wright in one of his forci-ble and clean-cut speeches. In a very deft and graceful way he detailed the labors of Judge Latham and the directors in their ef-forts to secure machinery to meet the demands of the public. From the testimony of Mr. Hermany, it was evident that the They had exhibited a laudable ambition to supply the city with water. They were hon-orable men, and they had given the city at last a full supply of water. Colonel Gantt dwelt on the fact that the city was now well supplied with water, and he thought the peo-

Toil and Trouble in the Family of Mr McMahon.

For several days past Henry McMahon and his wife Rosa have not been living harmoniously together. Henry is a one-legged individual and keeps a grocery on Second and Monroe. The exact cause of their disagreement it would be hard to ascertain. Their dislike for each other has not been confined to domestic coldness, but has become day morning to continue the row where they had left it off. They kept up the contest all through the day, taking a recess, of course, for their meals. After supper they began clawing each other like two Kilkennies. Rosa got hold of a large stone, with which she pummeled Henry over the head. In the morning she had previously hit him in the face with an oyster can. A crowd soon gathered to witness the dog fight last sight. gathered to witness the dog fight last night.

In a conversation had with one members of our honorable Board of Com missioners, yesterday, I was very much su: without being informed what it was; an explosion took place; the company was sued by damaged parties, and the court held that the corporation was not liable because it could not be expected to know what was in the box containing a can of nitro-glycerine. He quoted another case where, by an accident of nature, there has been an overflow of water which no human foresight could have guarded against, and in which the court has decided that the corporation was not liable. General Wright then went on to show that the company could the second of Commissioners, yesterday, I was very much surplied to hear him say that the resolution passed by the Board asking the Governor to make it a part of the business for the extra secsion of the Legislature to act upon, to an thorize the Taxing-District to issue bonds to buy the waterworks, did not originate in the Board or with the Board asking the Governor to make it a part of the business for the extra secsion of the Legislature to act upon, to an thorize the Taxing-District to issue bonds to buy the waterworks, did not originate in the Board or two make it a part of the business for the extra secsion of the Legislature to act upon, to an thorize the Taxing-District to issue bonds to buy the waterworks, did not originate in the Board or two buy the Board asking the Governor to make it a part of the business for the extra secsion of the Legislature to act upon, to an thorize the Taxing-District to issue bonds to buy the waterworks, did not originate in the Board or with the Board asking the Governor to make it a part of the business for the extra secsion of the Legislature to act upon, to an thorize the Taxing-District to issue bonds to buy the waterworks, did not originate in the Board or with the Board asking the Governor to make it a part of the business for the extra secsion of the Legislature to act upon, to an thorize the Taxing-District to issue bonds to buy the waterworks, did not originate in the Board or with the Board asking the Governor to make it a part of the busine the machinery burst, or the manufacturers "it is to be submitted to a vote of the people. Now, does not this look a little like getting the thing all cut and dried before the look of the people as to whether we shall be to the people as to whether we have the Memphis and Charleston Bailroad depot every hour from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. beforehand? Would it not, I ask the honorable Board, be in better taste to take the vote of the people before asking the Legislature to grant the authority? If the people are of Mr. Hermany, it was evident that the company had been really fortunate in getting the machinery here as soon as it did. Colonel Gantt went on to show that the Water company directors, instead of being held up to public execration, were really described by the public execration, were really described by this before goin, before the Legislature with this petition? THE THIRD DAY

Of the County Fair Shows a Marked Improvement in All Respects Over Tuesday and Wednesday.

Throng of Our Country Cousins Take in the Exposition, and Were Much Delighted Thereat.

The attendance at the Fair yesterday was by far the largest of the week, and showed a fact the former came early to enjoy the Fair, while the latter put in an appearance at an hour more suited to the races. Every de-partment was most fully represented. The Floral Hall was well filled with ladies' work and the products of the flelds and gardens. Agricultural Hall received about seventy-five bales of fancy cotton, as well as wagons and agricultural implements; while the blood-horse stables and the cattle-pens, as well as the sheep and swine and poultry de-partments, were each encouraged by additional entries. Exhibitors are awakening up to the fact that they must show their bes to get the premiums.

Considerable interest was manifested vesterday's horse, $30; second, $15; third, $5. There were four entries: Vic Gallina's Victor, H. and put up a forfeit. I had a peace warrant against him, but consented to release him on payment of costs.

**BUBBLE**, BUBBLE**, WM. SCHLOSS.

**BUBBLE**, BUBBLE**, Were four entries: Vic Gallina's Victor, II. A. Montgomery's Stamps, Charles Gallina's Pauline, and Cash's sorrel mare. The judges were A. C. Treadwell, F. O. Robertson and C. S. Farrell. Cash's entry got the pole, Victor, Stamps and Pauline in the order named. At the start on the first heat Pauline led A. the start, on the first heat, Pauline led, followed by Cash and Victor side by side, and Stamps closely following. The latter at once went for the lead, and bunched with the others, passing to the front at the turn, causing all three of his opponents to leave their feet. At the first quarter Stamps led, under pull, with the other three together. At the half mile Stamps was ahead, Pauline second Victor third and Cash fourth. This position was maintained to the string, winning the heat for Stamps without an effort. The second heat was a repetition of the first, save a show by Cash, which resulted in his getting confined to domestic coldness, our has second active war. Day before yesterday, Officer Wilson had to go in and separate them from second money, while Pauline was pulled back at the string to allow Victor to win third money.

The contest for the best gentleman rider was entered into by Messrs. John D. Waldran, F. O. Robertson and R. J. Caruthers.

Best two in three. Premium, $50; fire

Misses Mattie Mason, Katie Haynes and Annie Goodwyn were the judges. The contestants displayed fine skill in the manage ment of their horses and ease of posture The premium was awarded to Mr. John D. Waldran and certificate to F. O. Robertson.

The best boy rider was contested for by Masters W. A. Collier, jr., R. D. Goodwyn, jr., Charley Greer, Richard Southall, Dick Merrill, Sammy Southall, Tom Holman and Dave Greer. Dave Greer.
The judges were Misses Sue Pearson, Katie Haynes and Mattie Mason. There was not a poor or inferior rider among the lot, and it was not until after the judges caused the riders to charge horse, that they gave the premium to R. D. Goodwyn, jr.

To-day's programme is quite attractive, and promises to draw a large crowd. Fair Notes. Everybody should attend the Fair to-day d to-morrow. Miss Bessie Rembert exhibits a china plate said to be 100 years old. Seventy-five choice bales of cotton are enred for the premiums. Mrs. H. C. Simpson exhibits a large display of female handiwork. Yesterday the attendance was good. Today it will be much better. The purses for the races now hang out on Mrs. B. F.
